WHAT'S NEW SEPTEMBER - OCTOBER, 2005

Recycled Tasmanian Blue Gum 140x19mm; 300m²; rate $79.00/m²

This is a delightful timber in appearance. Not unlike Blackbutt or Spotted Gum — and would appeal to enthusiasts of both timbers. Has strong blackcurrant ribboning and mulberry tones. Many boards swarm with birdseye feature, fiddleback and black speck. The browns range from coffee-bean dark to a creamier latte tone. There's only 300m² so don't delay.

Recycled Messmate ³/₄ Random-width floor 200m²; rate $59.00/m²

We have become used to wideboard flooring as a premium product compared to 80mm strip flooring and used in popular public venues. However, a visit to a large 19th century European manor or country house would inform us that this is an inversion of the original practice. Fine narrow polished boards were saved for dancefloors in the main public rooms, while bedrooms, sculleries, bootrooms or gunrooms were planked in boards of random width to great rustic effect. As all tongue & grooves in our range are compatible, this practice is possible in your project and has an authentic look to it. Be different.

Recycled Blackbutt Wideboard 200x19mm

Plugged and with a micro-furrowed surface, recycled Blackbutt with that rustic patina is a much sought-after product that is ever-harder to source. We can currently supply both big and small orders and invite you to view our display boards. This is true too for Recycled Sydney Blue Gum Wideboard 200x19mm.

Recycled Tasmanian Oak 87x19mm; 300m²; $34.00/m²

So what? This is different, trust me. The best of both worlds. A clean edge, no residues, easy to lay, — but with a rustic patina to suit beach house, warehouse apartment, café or bar. Loads of character!
